

Project Controls Expo UK - 13th November 2019
Emirates Arsenal Stadium, London

Diversity in projects what does it really mean and do we really need to bother?

Carol Deveney
Managing Director

Ruchi Singh
Managing Director

About the Speakers

Carol Deveney, MD

See Change International Consulting Ltd

Executive leader in sponsorship of major infrastructure programmes in the UK and abroad

Ruchi Singh, MD

Kaleidoscope Transformation Ltd

Strategy and Transformation leader disrupting the status quo across government to deliver more efficient and effective services

Diversity in projects

What does it really mean and do we really need to bother?

Diversity in Projects?

What does it really mean and do we really need to bother?

Transformational projects face considerable challenge in creating their A-teams. To drive an exceptional project outcome requires an exceptional teams that can think differently – the big question is how?

- If we use the same team as always can we really deliver something different?
- Do we really need to proactively seek out diversity in our teams?
- Is it just about how my team looks or can it really effect my likelihood of success?
- What are the pragmatic benefits of a diverse and inclusive culture as a driver for more resilient teams and improved outcomes?
- How do we improve the conditions for cognitively diverse teams to thrive?

Join the debate and be part of the solution.

What actions will you take?

Seek wild cards?

Step up?

Fish in new pools?

Keep debate alive on LinkedIn?

Build your superhero universe?

Do nothing?

A top-down view of several people's hands clasped together in a circle, symbolizing teamwork and collaboration. The hands are of various skin tones and are wearing light-colored, long-sleeved shirts. The background is a plain, light color.

What do think?